WALL STREET MUST CONFORM TO LAW

der the Aldrich-Payne bill 51.6 per cent of the gross imports in the six months were entered free, while in the four previous years for the six months the free list averaged 45.45. The production of revenue under the new law for six months, he cited, was $166,002.856.54, as compared to semi-annual revenue under the Wilson-Gorman teriff of $83,147,625.89, and semi-annual revenue under the Dingley law of $120,256.841.84. Basing his remark on these and other figures, the President declared:

"The present customs law is the best customs law that has ever been passed, and it is most significant in this that it indicates on the part of the Republican party the adoption of a policy to change from an increase in duties to a reduction of them and to effect an increase of revenues at the same time."

at the same time."

On Postal Savings Banks.

Concerning the postal savings banks bill the President said:

'In the present stage of the Senate hill there have been inserted amendments drawn apparently for the purpose of having money deposited as savings in government post-offices, distributed through the locality where deposited in the banks, State and national, and so deposited as to make it impossible for the trustees of the fund appointed under the law to withdraw the money for investment in any other form. I regard such an amendment as likely to defeat the law, because it takes away a feature which ought to be present in the law to assure its constitutionality.

'If the law provided that the trustees, to be appointed, with the funds thus deposited could meet the financial exigencies of the government by purchase or redemption of the government 2 per cent, and other bonds, the measure would certainly be within the Federal power, because postal banks would then clearly be an instrument of national government in borrowing money.

'I sincerely hope that before the measure is hammered into final shape if may take on characteristics which shall give it a constitutional validity and sound financial strength and usefulness."

Concerning the party promise to and sound financial strength and usefulness."

Concerning the party promise to enact a railroad rate law and the bill
on that subject subsequently introduced, the President said:

"This railroad measure goes further than the promise of the platform, for while it subjects the issue of stock and bonds to the restrictive supervision of the Interstate Commerce Commission and prevents future watering of securities and forbids the acquisition by a railroad company of stock in a competing line, it also puts very much more power in the hands of the commission for the regulation of rates, and facilitates the ease of supervision by the commission of railroads to secure compliance by railroads with rights of the public and shipper."

"There is a decided difference in the party as to the proper rules to prevent in the House and as to the personnel of the leadership. I am hopeful that as we approach the lines of battle for the next year the aettiement of these internal questions can be effected without side a breach of the party as to prevent our presenting an unbroken front to the enemy.

"We among the Republicans may be discouraged when we consider our own dissensions, but when we look to the possibility of any united action on the party of the Democrats for any policy or line of policles, we must take courage. The Republican party has been responsible for the government for the last seventeen years, and the problem growing out of the Spanish War, the rapid accumulation of wealth and the greed for power of its accumulation, and while it has not been perfect, the record is one of which we have no reason to be ashamed."

Miss Robson returned—though, of course, she had seen a great deal of the Belmonts abroad—and began rehearsing for The Dawn of a To-Morrow.

But soon he was buying from his brother, Perry Belmont, the latter's beautiful home, "By the Sea," at Newport. Rumor was comforted.

However, when Miss Robson continued her successful play there were few who expected that the engagement would be announced before another spring. So after all it was something of a surprise. Miss Robson kept the secret until the last day of her stage careet. She will remain at her home in this city until the wedding, which will take place some time in March.
